THE

DUBLIN REVIEW.

VOL. XII. NEW SERIES.

JANUARY——APRIL,

MDCCCLXIX.

BOSTON COLLEGE LIBRARY
CHESTNUT HILL, MASS.

LONDON:
BURNS, OATES, & CO., 17 PORTMAN STREET,
AND 63 PATERNOSTER ROW.
DERBY: RICHARDSON & SONS.
DUBLIN: JAMES DUFFY; W. B. KELLY.
1869.

LONDON:
WYMAN AND SONS, PRINTERS, GREAT QUEEN STREET,
LINCOLN'S INN FIELDS, W.C.

67916

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—SENIOR'S IRISH VOYAGES.

Remarkable reception of Mr. Senior's book 1
Mr. Senior and Giraldus Cambrensis 2
Real character of Mr. Senior's book 3
Mr. Steuart Trench 4
The rules of the Lansdowne estate 8
The Donoghue murder 10
The Barony of Farney 15
The function of landlords 16
Malthus and Calvin 17
Lord Rosse's habit of personality 18
Mr. Senior on O'Connell 19
On the Catholic religion 23
On the Irish Priests . . . . . ib.
Conclusion 26

ART. II.—THEORIES ON DEVELOPMENT OF THE FAITH.

Effect of the Bull Ineffabilis as to theories on development . . . 28
1. Anglican theory that development is purely verbal 31
Mr. Liddon's view that certain Catholics of the first centuries only differed verbally from the Nicene definition 32
This view disproved by facts 33
Dean Mansel's view that there is no development because theological terms are unintelligible 37
First condition of development. The doctrine developed must from the first have been understood by the Church's teachers . . . 38
2. Hegel's theory, that development implies real contradiction, and that all heresy is a phase of the Truth 40
Prevalence of this theory at Oxford . . . . . ib.
Comparison of Hegel with Eunomius 42
Catholic answer to the two 44
Pantheistic basis of Hegel's theory 45

Second condition of development. The whole Truth was taught by the Apostles, and implicitly held by their successors 47
3. What is the meaning of "implicitly?" 48
F. Newman's view, that development means the evolution of partial judgments 50
Kuhn's completion of this view, by the theory that development is the evolution of judgments implicitly contained in ideas . . . 61
Examination of this theory 64
Its application to the first centuries 67
Apostolic idea of Mary 70

ART. III.—THE JESUITS IN CANADA.

Characteristic presumption of this age 70
Sincere and intelligent character of Mr. Parkman 71
Opinion of Dr. Taché and Abbé Faillon 72
Mr. Parkman's view of Catholic missions 74
The Martyr Jean de Brébeuf 76
Mr. Parkman on Devotees and Nuns 79
The early Catholic laity of Canada 82
The missionaries and the Indians. 85
Mr. Stamer on Catholic and Protestant missionaries . . . . . ib.

ART. IV.—PRINCIPLES OF CATHOLIC HIGHER EDUCATION.

Advantage of considering principles apart from their application . . 86
First principle of Catholic higher education, that it should develop and strengthen the various mental faculties 88
Second principle, that it should indoctrinate the student with Catholic truth, in itself, and in its bearing on things secular . . . 89
Third principle, that it should enable the student to come into contact with the English Protestant mind 103
Serious objection to the proposal of having Catholic students examined at Oxford and Cambridge 106

ART. V.—THE CHURCH AND NAPOLEON I.

Vast materials for M. d'Haussonville's work 107
Scandalous Suppressions in the Napoleon Correspondence . . . 108
M. d'Haussonville's view of Napoleon's character 111
Napoleon's incapacity to comprehend conscience as a motive of action . 113
His career as Consul 114

The Concordat 117
Napoleon's coronation 120
Commencement of the contest with the Pope 124
Correspondence with His Holiness 126
The Pope's final letter 130
The Imperial Catechism 134
The Clergy under the Empire 138

ART. VI.—CHURCH MUSIC AND CHURCH CHOIRS.

Summary of last Article 140
By whom is our music to be sung? 141
The supply of boys 151
Guidance of the choir boy 153
Where should singers be located? 155
The question of congregational singing 158
A congregational mass 167
Explanation of "the Month" 172

ART. VII.—THE ORTHODOXY OF POPE HONORIUS.

Completeness and excellence of F. Bottalla's reply to Mr. Renouf . . 173
Mr. Renouf's first proposition, that Honorius taught heresy ex cathedrâ. 174
First reply to this proposition 175
Second reply to this proposition 176
Mr. Renouf's second proposition, that Honorius was a Monotholite . 177
Reply to his argument drawn from Popes and Councils . . . 179
Reply to his argument drawn from historical facts 183
Reply to his argument drawn from Honorius's Letters . . . 185
Exposition of the Monothelite heresy 186
Analysis of Honorius's Letters 191

ART. VIII.—IRELAND AND THE NEW MINISTRY.

Character of the present political situation 203
The Independent Opposition Policy 204
Present political condition of Ireland 205
Changes in the Irish representation 256
The new Cabinet 207
The Irish Chancellor . . . . . ib.
Attitude of the Irish Catholics 208
The Irish Protestants . . . . . ib.
Proper disposition of the funds of the Establishment 209

IX.—Notices of Books.

Dr. Murphy's Acta Concilii Baltimoriensis 212
Cardinal Wiseman's Daily Meditations 212
Canon Walker's Essay on First Principles 216
Mr. Meynell's Padre Liberatore 216
Mr. Martineau's Word for Scientific Theology 217
Archbishop of York's Limits of Philosophical Inquiry 217
Mr. Maurice on the Conscience 217
Mr. Lloyd's Freedom of the Will 218
Abbé Laforet's Why Men do not Believe 221
F. Lockhart's Communion of Saints and Secession of Schism . . . 222
M. Bouix's Condamnation de Galilée 223
Révue Catholique 225
Abbé Charbonnel's Pensées de Veuillot 226
The Month 227
Dr. Vaughan's National Tendencies and Duties of Catholics . . . 228
Mr. Gladstone's Chapter of Autobiography 229
Mr. MacColl's Is there not a Cause? 232
Mr. Buckley's Life of Father O'Leary 233
Life of Marie Eustelle-Harpain 241
Mr. Yonge's Life of Lord Liverpool 242
Mr. Cobb's Kiss of Peace 243
Mr. Mills on Dean Stanley's Characteristics of the Papacy . . . 251
Mr. King's Keighley Hall and other Poems 252
Mr. Ffoulkes's Church's Creed or Crown's Creed 252
Mr. McCarthy's Lives of Benedictine Writers 257
Sir John Manndevile's Voyage and Travaille. 260
Mr. Hood's Lamps, Trumpets, and Pitchers 261
M. Guyot's Somme des Conciles 264
The New Testament Narrative 265
Abbot Gueranger's Liturgical Year 267

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—MR. FFOULKES'S LETTER TO ARCHBISHOP MANNING.

Introductory Remarks 269
Insertion of "Filioque" into the Symbol 271
The seventh canon of Ephesus 273
The definition of Chalcedon 281
The Holy Ghost's Procession from the Son 283
Totally imaginary declaration ascribed by Mr. Ffoulkes to Pope Adrian I. 288
Pontiffs alleged by Mr. Ffoulkes as having denied the Church's indivisible unity 291
Papal supremacy 296
The Pseudo-Isidorian Decretals 301
Mr. Ffoulkes's Exhibition of personal character 303

ART. II.—F. NEWMAN'S OXFORD PAROCHIAL SERMONS.

Unprecedented character of this republication 309
Mr. Newman's presentation to the Vicarage of S. Mary's . . . 310
S. Mary's Parish and Parish Church 313
The occupation of that church for university and parish purposes . . 315
Dr. Newman's earlier career as college tutor 321
Rapid growth and vast extent of his influence as a preacher . . . 323
Dr. Newman in the S. Mary's pulpit 325
His spontaneous surrender of his unprecedented influence . . . 327

ART. III.—S. JOHN DAMASCENE.

The age of patristic literature very short 331
The city of Damascus 334
Birth of S. John Damascene 337
His tutor Cosmas 338
Iconoclasm 340
The Saint's first Treatise 342
Vengeance of the Emperor Leo 347

The Saint enters the laura of S. Sabas 349
His "de Fide Orthodoxâ" 351
His other Treatises 357
His Hymns 359

ART. IV.—CATHOLIC CONTROVERSIES.

Relation of Catholic Controversies to the Church's unity of faith . . 361
The Church has herself condemned tenets as unsound without condemning them as heretical 363
She has encouraged her children to write in the vernacular against condemned non-heretical errors 365
She has praised those who protested against heresies as such, before she condemned them 370
Unity of the Church's faith 371
The Church's attitude towards condemned non-heretical errors . . 372
Converts should not be kidnapped under false pretences . . . 375
Importance of their clearly understanding the great amount of intellectual submission which will be required of them 376
The aggressive Catholic controversies, undue violations of the Church's peace 378
Should they be reserved for the Theological Schools? 380
Firm interior assent is due to certain judgments which are not strictly infallible 382
Consideration of various current comments in the DUBLIN REVIEW . 383

ART. V.—THE CONVENT CASE.

English juries have not yet learned justice to Catholics . . . 385
Miss Saurin's opening evidence on the original cause of the contention . 385
Her counsel at the end tacitly abandoned this charge 387
The Judge called attention to this discrepancy 387
His testimony to the excellent evidence given by the sisters . . 389
The jurymen must have been convinced that nuns would have no scruple in committing perjury for defence of their order 390
The jurymen were honest, but the mind of Englishmen is quite warped on such matters 391
English comments on convent life are inconsistent with any one part of the dogma of the Incarnation 394
The ascetic principle is the one conservative element of modern Europe. 395

ART. VI.—F. PEREZ' AND MR. LONGFELLOW'S DANTE.

F. Perez' view of the Purgatorio 399
The theological theory of Purgatory 400

Dante's conception of the new aerial body 403
Patience of the suffering souls 404
Their compunction and devotion 407
Their prayer 407
The seven capital sins 410
General character of F. Perez' work 424
Mr. Longfellow's notes and translation 424

ART. VII.—RITUALISTIC DIVINITY AND LAW.

Melancholy position of the Ritualists 425
Abbé Edgeworth's conversion 426
The great Ritualist delusion 428
The branch theory 429
Communion in the early Church 432
The Ritualist view of Absolution 434
The Catholic doctrine of Absolution 437
The late judgment of the Privy Council 440
The effect on Ritualistic worship 441
Their attitude in regard to it 443
Its effect on the Puritan party 444
In one respect the judgment a triumph to Ritualists 445
Mr. Chambers' charges against Lord Cairns 447
The Royal Supremacy 449
The future of the Anglican Church 450

ART VIII.—Mr. GLADSTONE'S IRISH POLICY.

Lord Palmerston's Irish Policy 452
Condition of Ireland under his government 453
Mr. Gladstone's action in Irish affairs 455
Mr. Disraeli's attitude in regard to the Church Establishment . 456
The conditions of Mr. Gladstone's policy 458
His method of disestablishment 459
His method of disendowment 461
The case of the Maynooth Professors 462
The settlement of the Church lands 463
The next step 464

IX.—NOTICES OF BOOKS.

Letters of Pius IX. on the Gallican Articles 465
The Civilta Cattolica 467
Mgr. Dupanloup on the General Council 474
M. Bouix' Tractatus de Papâ 476

Dr. Weninger on Papal Infallibility 481
The Catholic Truth Society 484
F. Gallwey's Sermon on the Hon. C. Langdale, S.J. 486
F. de Ponlevoy's Life of F. de Ravignan 492
Sermons of the Jesuit Fathers on the Convent Case 492
F. Rogacci's Holy Confidence 494
F. Coleridge's Vita Vitæ Nostræ 495
Mr. Garside's Preaching of the Cross 496
Church Music and Church Choirs 497
The Month, February, 1869 497
The Union Review, March, 1869 500
Mgr. Dupanloup's L'Enfant 501
Sir J. T. Coleridge's Life of Mr. Keble 504
Mr. Longman's Edward III. 506
Handbook of the Year 1868 510

X.—Correspondence.

The Dean of Westminster and Mr. Mills 512
Dr. Gillow on Catholic Higher Education 517

XI.—Roman Ecclesiastical Documents.

Recent Decree of the Holy Office on the manner of receiving Converts into the Church 530
Decree on the same subject in 1715 532
Letter from four Louvain Professors to Card. de Andrea . . . 532